

Consumer devices Networking Data centers

A Optimistic ICT energy projection

B Expected ICT energy projection

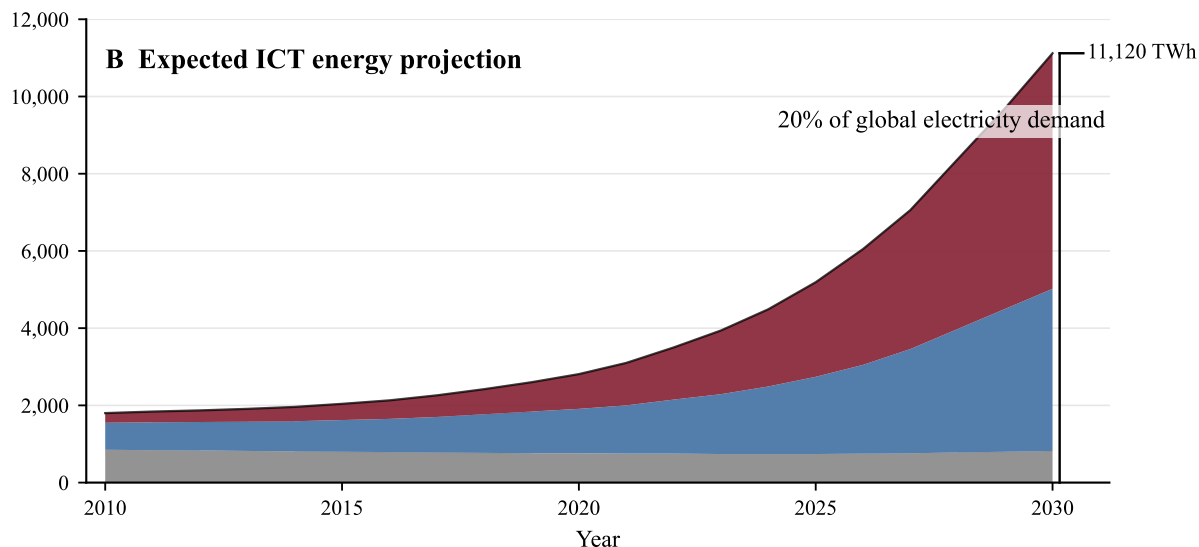

Figure 1. Projected growth in global energy consumption by information and communication technology (ICT), separated into consumer devices, networking, and data centers. The right-side brackets show the 2030 total for each scenario; the optimistic and expected scenarios correspond to 7% and 20% of projected global electricity demand, respectively.